

Two Friends

A Water Bottle and a Fire Cracker were good friends. The Match Box was jealous of their friendship. The Match Box said to the Fire Cracker, "Don't play with the Water Bottle. He will harm you." Once the Match Box hid behind the Fire Cracker and tried to light it. But the Water Bottle quickly splashed water on the Match Box and put off the fire. The frightened Match Box ran away from there and never disturbed them again.

Mino's Grief

Mino was a happy pelican who was friendly with everyone. One day, Linny the eagle, saw him. Linny started making fun of Mino's huge beak. Mino was very sad. Mino went to his friend Kom the kingfisher and asked him, "Kom, what shall I do? Linny is making fun of my huge beak."

So Kom told Mino, "Don't worry Mino. Foolish Linny doesn't know how useful our beaks are for us to catch fishes. We are birds that live on fishes! Your large beak helps you catch and store fishes easily. Be proud of it!" After Mino realised how useful his big beak was, he became happy again!

The Friendship Tale

There was a fight between a bowl and a bottle. The bowl said to the bottle "People don't use you as much as they use me". The bottle was very sad and didn't say anything. It was winter time. People drank lesser water and had more of hot soups in the bowl. Soon, the season changed and summer came. People started drinking lots of water and rarely touched the bowl. It was always the bottle that they used. The bowl felt ashamed of his pride. The bottle didn't make fun of him. Instead, the bottle shook hand with the bowl and they became friends!

Boastful Tinku

Tinku was a boastful crane. He always boasted to his friends, "I can fly higher than anyone else." One day, the friends saw an aeroplane flying high above in the sky. Tinku's friends said, "Look, how high that aeroplane flies!" Angry Tinku said, I will fly higher than that aeroplane. Tinku started a race with the aeroplane and flew as high as he could. But after sometime, he got tired. He lost his balance and fell on the ground. Tinku felt really foolish and never boasted about himself ever again.
